"DORM III" TO BE DEDICATED CLERC HALL

On April 6, "Dorm III" will be dedicated Clerc Hall. The name, selected by the Student Body Government, is in honor of Laurent Clerc, America's first deaf teacher.

While in Europe studying the British and French methods of teaching the deaf, the Reverend Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet made the acquaintance of a young deaf man, Laurent Clerc, who was teaching in Paris. Gallaudet persuaded Clerc to return with him to the United States and together they established the first permanent public school for the deaf, the American School for the Deaf in Hartford, Connecticut. During his long teaching career, Clerc was responsible for training many students who became teachers of the deaf throughout the nation.

As part of the second annual Charter Day program, the dedication ceremonies will be held in the Gallaudet College Auditorium at 2 p.m. Members of the Clerc family will be participating; and Mr. Loy Golladay from the National Technical Institute for the Deaf will be principal speaker. Mr. Golladay, who was associated with the American School for the Deaf and helped establish its museum, has been involved in researching the life and work of Laurent Clerc for many years.

All faculty and staff are encouraged to attend the dedication ceremonies.

SIGN LANGUAGE STUDIES -- NEW PUBLICATION

Published twice a year, Sign Language Studies will bring together research on visual sign language systems. Early issues will include papers on socio-linguistics among the deaf, dictionaries of national sign languages, logic and sign language and natural and invented sign languages.

William Stokoe is editor with Ursula Bellugi, George Detmold, William Nemser, Fred Schreiber and Jerome Schein acting as advisory editors. Jim Woodward, Harry Bornstein and Lillian Hamilton are among contributors for the first issue.

YOUR PRESENCE IS REQUESTED

The Public Broadcasting System's
"Captioning for the Deaf" project is presenting its first captioned program on Sunday, March 3, from 8:30-9 p.m. Viewing sites for this experimental project will be in Hall Memorial Building rooms 213 and 254 and the basement of the Library.

All faculty and staff with hearing impairments are invited. There will be seating for approximately 150-200 people. Audience reactions and comments will be used to assist PBS in perfecting its captioning techniques and will lead to more widespread captioning.

AROUND AND ABOUT

--Harry Bornstein is attending the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in San Francisco, where he is presenting a paper, "Further Developments in International Sign Language." He will also hold a colloquium at the University of Nevada on "Sign Language in the Education of the Deaf."

--Donald Brown will be participating in a four day behavior modification workshop in Atlanta, Georgia, from February 27-March 2.

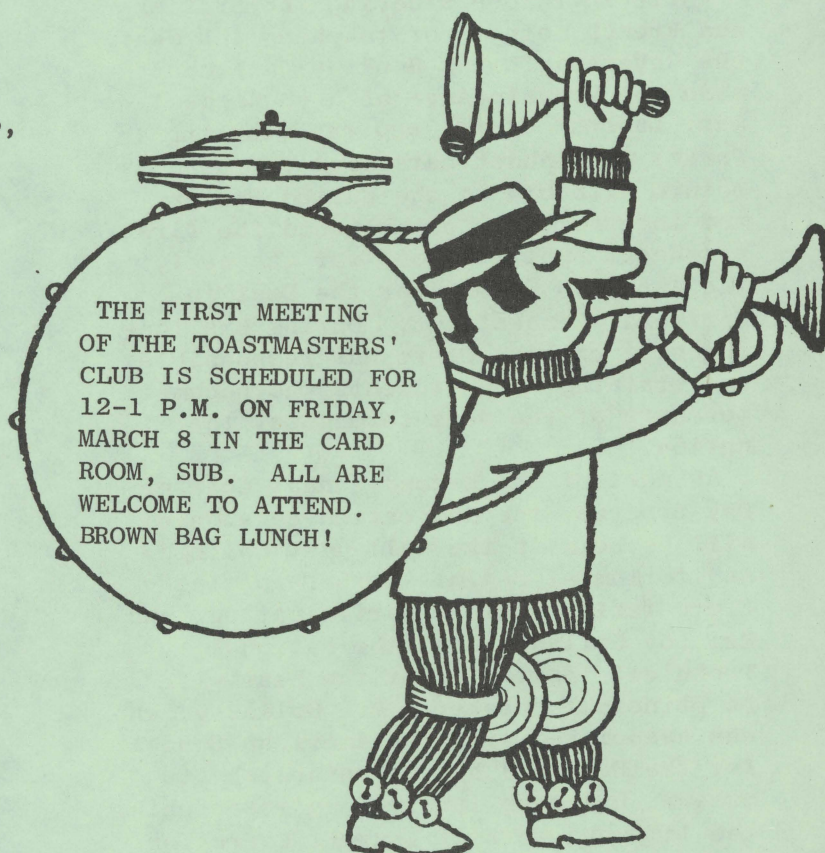

--The Goddard Space Flight Center has organized sign language courses for 40 of its hearing employees. Arranged by Gallaudet College, these courses grew out of Goddard's need last year to hire part-time computer workers, many of whom were recruited from MSSD.

The MSSD students worked with a deaf computer operator and a hearing operator who knew sign language and who could instruct them in computer basics. Results were so good that Goddard initiated courses this year in sign language for hearing employees.
